Goals

Think about it: We are going to spend an hour a day together for the next nine months. I hope that it can be a rewarding experience for the both of us. I have already been over what my goals are for the year; now I want to know what your goals are. Be specific and honest.

Directions: You may write about one of three things: this class, this year (all classes) or life. In a well structured paragraph, I want a goal statement for your topic, along with a narrative explaining your goal(s) (how you will achieve them, why they are important, etc). Plus, this is a good way to get a sense of what type of writers and thinkers we are.
